Press Release

Intervalle is honoured to accept the Gosserez gallery's invitation to host this exhibition, which will bring together around artists from both spaces. The physical presence of these works triggers a unique aesthetic experience, whether in a public place for the duration of a visit or for the lifetime of a collector. Material is at the heart of the concerns of the artists featured in the exhibition. The designers at Galerie Gosserez work with raw materials, by hand, like demiurges. Through the organic forms they give to their art furniture, they pay homage to Mother Nature. Galerie Intervalle presents photographic works in which material and experimentation are paramount. Like the pioneers of photography 150 years ago, three photographers are reinventing the medium. The photosensitive sludge from a stream polluted by an Agfa film factory can become silver emulsion, giving birth to organic photographs. Sometimes going against the grain of our century, where progress is draped in immateriality, these artists, each in their own way, celebrate the primacy of the tangible, inviting us to take the shortest route to the pleasure of the senses.
